The world lies at our feet
and we walk reverently aware of its wonder,

The domain of human relations
enriches us —

"God calls you to an apostolate. You are Religious . . . who will carry afar the glory of the Holy Names of Jesus and Mary."

In 1844, after many months of prayer and serious contemplation, Eulalie Durocher, with the aid of Melodie Dufresne and Henriette Cere, founded the Congregation of the Sisters of the Holy Names of Jesus and Mary, based on the rules and habit of a French religious community.

At the suggestion of Bishop Ignace Bourgat of Montreal, the three girls began their religious life in a little stone schoolhouse in Longueuil, Canada, on October 28, 1843. The following year, on December 8, they pronounced their vows, and Eulalie received the official title Mother Marie Rose.

This seemingly insignificant incident marked the beginning of an ever-growing apostolate of true dedication and devotion to the work of God. Within a few years after the death of Mother Marie Rose, her Sisters fulfilled a life-long ambition; and missions were opened in New York, California, Florida, Oregon, and in the Provinces of Windsor and Manitoba, Canada, all functioning from and through the Mother House at Outremont, Montreal. Over the years, the community has further advanced to include novitiates in Oregon, California, New York, and Basutoland, South Africa, and schools in twelve of the fifty States, three Canadian Provinces, South Africa, and Latin America.

In 1852, when their venerated Master of Novices, Monsignor Francois Allard, O.M.I., established his See as Vicar Apostolic in Rome, South Africa, the Sisters became associated with the work there through prayer. The first Sisters, however, left for Basutoland only in 1931. It was at this time that a group also left for Japan. Many months of valiant work and immense good among the Japanese were interrupted by the war, and the Sisters were forced to cease their efforts. They have not since returned to the Orient, but each Sister individually longs for the opportunity to share her knowledge and love of Christ with all peoples.

"Be ye perfect as your Heavenly Father is perfect." This is the most vital duty of a Religious, personal sanctification through the special mandate of her community. She consecrates her life to prayer and an education which will prepare souls for life eternal. She shares in great abundance the apostolate of her Congregation. This is her happiness; this is her holiness!

Holy Names has carried on its high Christian principles and traditions since the Sisters of the Holy Names of Jesus and Mary established themselves at the shores of Lake Merritt, Oakland, in 1868. This institution was the first high school in Oakland and was a response to the need for schools of secondary education for young girls. After a short time, however, it became evident that the facilities in this first establishment were not adequate for the steadily increasing number of students wishing to attend. Accordingly, in 1931, the school was transferred to its present location on Harbord Drive, where it occupies 5.78 acres.

During that first year at the new site, 1931-1932, 302 students attended classes; this is approximately one half of the current attendance record. Many of the advantages enjoyed by the present student body are the same as those cherished by the first graduates. The same quality teaching, wide variety of courses, and excellent extra curricular activities help in forming well-educated girls and lend aid in expanding their spiritual, mental, physical, and scholastic horizons.

Student Body

The Student Body is an organization which, based on parliamentary procedure, directs, controls, and is the basis of student activity. Through this organization, each girl works with the faculty and officers to reach her goal of Christian womanhood.

The various student body activities are the stepping stones to our goals in spiritual and intellectual development.

"That All May Be One" is the motto that the Executive Council has chosen for the year. This motto is a true standard which the Student Body shall use as a guide. Officers of the major organizations and class presidents comprise the Executive Council, which acts to unify the efforts of the faculty and student body.

Student Spiritual Council

The Student Spiritual Council spread a Christ-like spirit this year with Marty and her officers leading the school. With the prayer of Saint Francis — "Lord, make us instruments of Thy peace" — everyone participated enthusiastically in the numerous activities of the S.S.C.

"Where there is hatred let us sow love" dictates the activities of the Sodality. Other phrases from this prayer serve as an inspiration to the co-ordinating committees.

Sodality, the very center of the S. S. C., promotes among students a deep appreciation of their Catholic Faith and a strong devotion to our Lady through various projects of Catholic Action. This year, due to the efforts of the apostolic-minded Junior sodalists, the First Communicants at St. Mary's were provided with beautifully assembled dresses and veils, while the Seniors concentrated on the teaching aspect through catechism lessons each week.

Orchestra

The "sound of music" is welcome to all people. At Holy Names it is produced by our very capable and dedicated orchestra.

Orchestra provides an outlet for students who wish to express themselves through music. While learning the music, the students cultivate a knowledge and appreciation of musical pieces. The orchestra promotes leadership among its members and the ability to co-operate. Finally, these members share with the Student Body the beauty of music.

Paula Freschi, President

Ann Repetto, Secretary-Treasurer, and Katherine Bell, Vice President, help plan C.S.F. activities.

"Scholarship for Service" has a special meaning for all C.S.F. members. As a part of this honor society, each girl has gained the necessary academic requirements and has assisted others in their studies. If a student receives the honor four out of six semesters, she becomes a life member. A C.S.F. member wears her pin proudly as a symbol of her scholarship and her service.

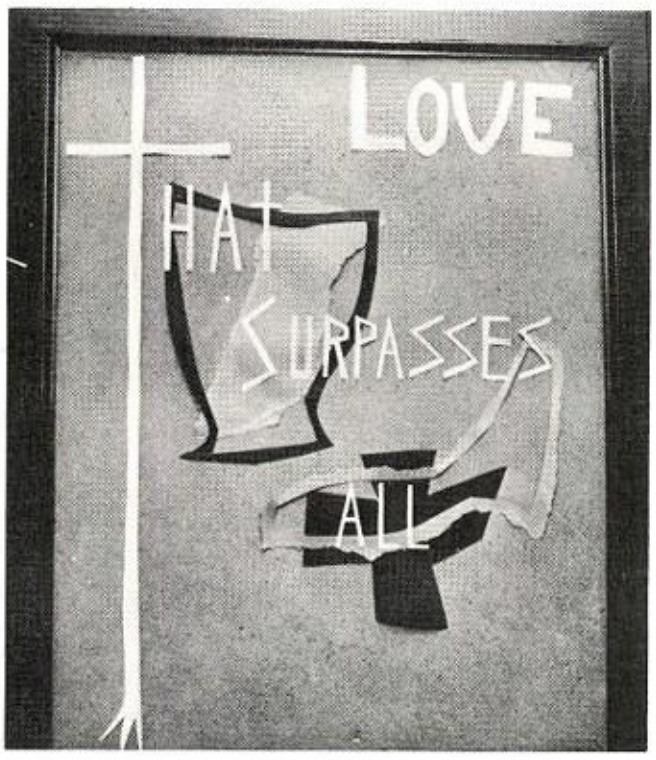
Studies

Religion

The primary purpose of a Catholic high school is to further Christian ideals and to develop in each student a fuller understanding of her faith. At Holy Names the religion course serves this purpose by cultivating the practice of faith, hope, and charity in everyday life. It permeates the inner-self and enables the girls to realize what their goal really is. It provides the flame "that casts fire upon the earth."

Lynn Schralla leads senior religion in an interesting discussion on materialism in the modern world.

In Freshman religion class, Joan Treiner, conducts a discussion of Abraham and his influence on world salvation.



The Bible ceremony this year opened the way for a new religion course at HNH. Freshman representatives received their Bibles from the three major presidents.

Kathy, Rosie, Janet and Dolores act out a scene from "Dr. Faustus."

English

Short stories, the subject of first quarter English III, evolves from European fairy and folk tales of the past. Re-enacting such tales is an interesting way to study the origin of our modern short story form.

Kathy Kretzmer and Sandy Cavallo discuss "To Build a Fire" by Jack London.

English at Holy Names includes literature, composition, and grammar. Literature, covering poetry, fiction, biography and drama, gives students an insight into both the realism and idealistic aspects of life. In composition, girls learn how to put their own ideas into writing. Grammar, including usage, vocabulary and spelling, is taught so that students can master the structure of the English language.

Learning is fun in Mrs. Carbis' English II.

Foreign Languages

With the world as closely united as it is today, a foreign language proves valuable for students of our school and future citizens of the world. Italian, French, Spanish, and Latin classes are supplemented with a fully equipped language lab, to produce only the best linguists of tomorrow.

Marian Redd, Joyce Raffaelli, and Teresa Brown admire these "belle bambole" in their Italian "vesti."

Science

In an age of scientific discovery, science is a matter of national concern, for America needs it now more than ever before. Science is a pivot around which the forces that compose our world revolve.

Math

Along with the new science age and its developments come a vital need for math. General math, Algebra I and II, geometry, and advanced math are all valuable classes contributing to the personal knowledge of every girl attending Holy Names.

The aim of the social studies department is to present each student with a knowledge of man, his history, and his culture. With the attainment of a Christian viewpoint of history and current events, the student is prepared to accept his responsibility as an active member of the adult society.

Office and Clerical Practice give the girls a chance to function in an office-type situation. Though the challenges are many and varied, Holy Names has a reputation for sending out into the business world well-trained secretaries.

Clothing

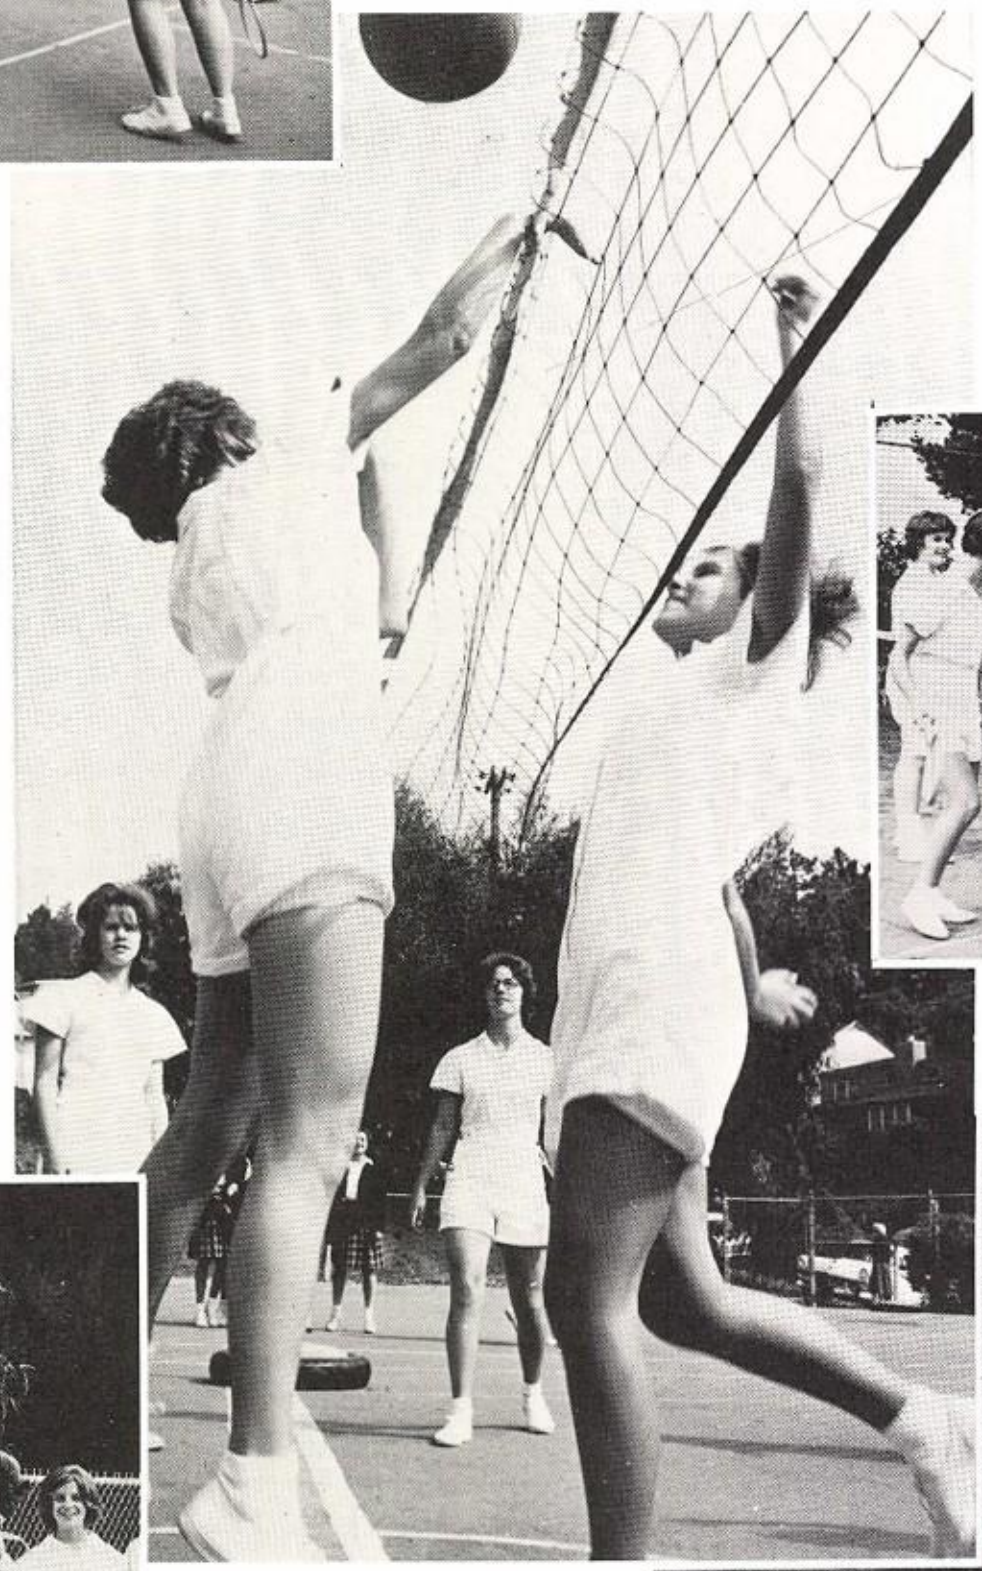
As clothing students master the rudiments of machine and hand sewing, they have gained valuable knowledge in this domestic field. They learn to select patterns and material, assemble the garment, and finish it professionally. In addition to learning about fabrics and patterns, the clothing students learn the importance of appropriate apparel.

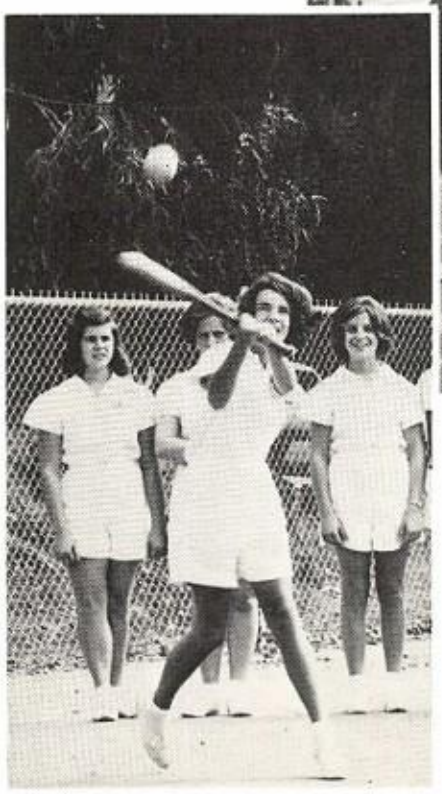
Janice makes her Soph Hop dress out of blue brocade.

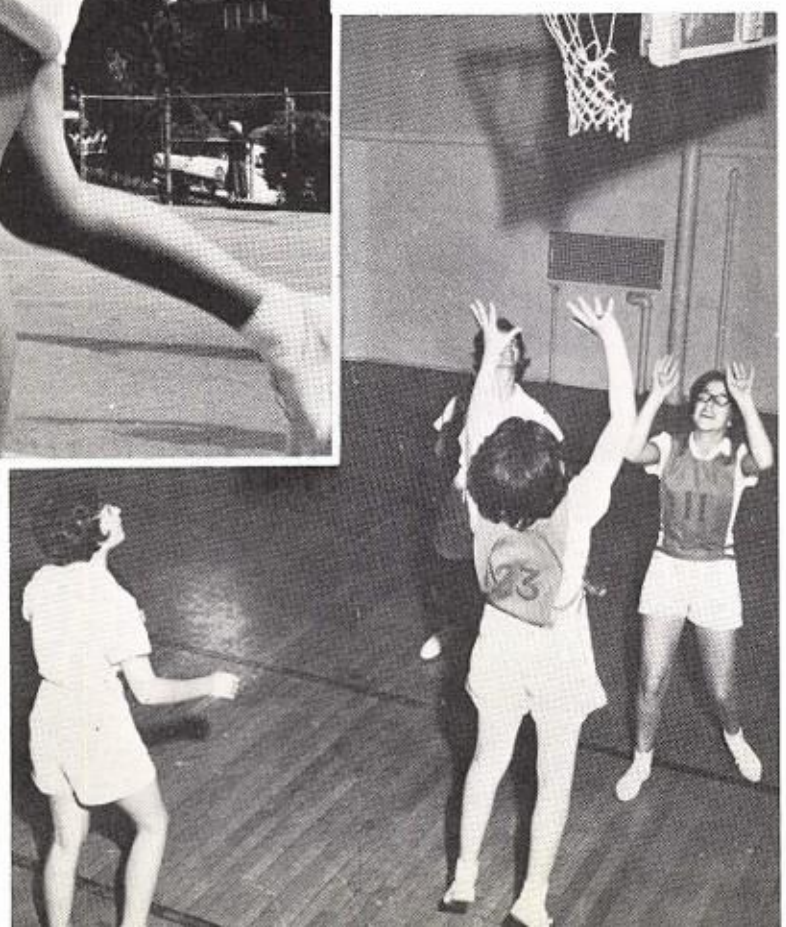
Physical Education

The physical education classes, under the guidance of our dedicated gym teachers, Mrs. Ecklof and Miss Rose, enliven the year with exercises, folk dancing, and organized sports, including volleyball, basketball, and softball. Badminton and tennis have been added for the enjoyment of the interested.

Besides learning co-ordination through vigorous exercises, the students further their athletic skills and learn the true value of sportsmanship and teamwork.







Activities

Registration

Registration day was a hectic confusion of schedule changes, homeroom and locker locations, and book and uniform purchases. Freshmen eagerly acquainted themselves with the campus and with their new classmates. Sophomores, Juniors, and Seniors returned to their Alma Mater after three months of vacation. Though nine months of study lay ahead, everyone had to concede that it was good to be back.

Executive Council Pin Ceremony

The Executive Council Pin Ceremony is the solemn vesting of student power in elected officers. The Executive Council pin, a blue pin bearing the seal of the Sisters of the Holy Names, is distributed by Sister Superior to members of the Executive Council. These pins are a reminder of the responsibilities which rest upon the student leaders.

The ceremony ended with the act of consecration whereby Executive Council members asked the help of Jesus and Mary to carry out their duties and to meet their responsibilities.

Ring Ceremony

The Senior ring is more than just a piece of jewelry. It is a symbol of all the qualities that mark a student of Holy Names High School. It is also a symbol of the responsibility of the Seniors as leaders of the school. Thus, following prayerful preparation at the annual day of recollection, the Seniors received their rings. Father Lionel Moroney, O. F. M., blessed and distributed them to the Class of '64.

After the ceremony, the Seniors were asked to report to the Social Hall, where their sister class had planned a congratulations party. Cookies, punch, and good wishes made a perfect end to a memorable day.

Congratulations, Seniors!

"I would never have believed that it is so sweet to give oneself to God, and to live for Him alone."

Mother Marie Rose Play

On October 6 we celebrated the feast day of Mother Marie Rose, foundress of the Sisters of the Holy Names of Jesus and Mary. A production entitled The Single Day aroused our devotion to Mother and brought us to a deeper appreciation and love for the education we are receiving from her community.

Dolores Paul gives a vivid portrayal of a gracious and gentle Mother Marie Rose.

Junior

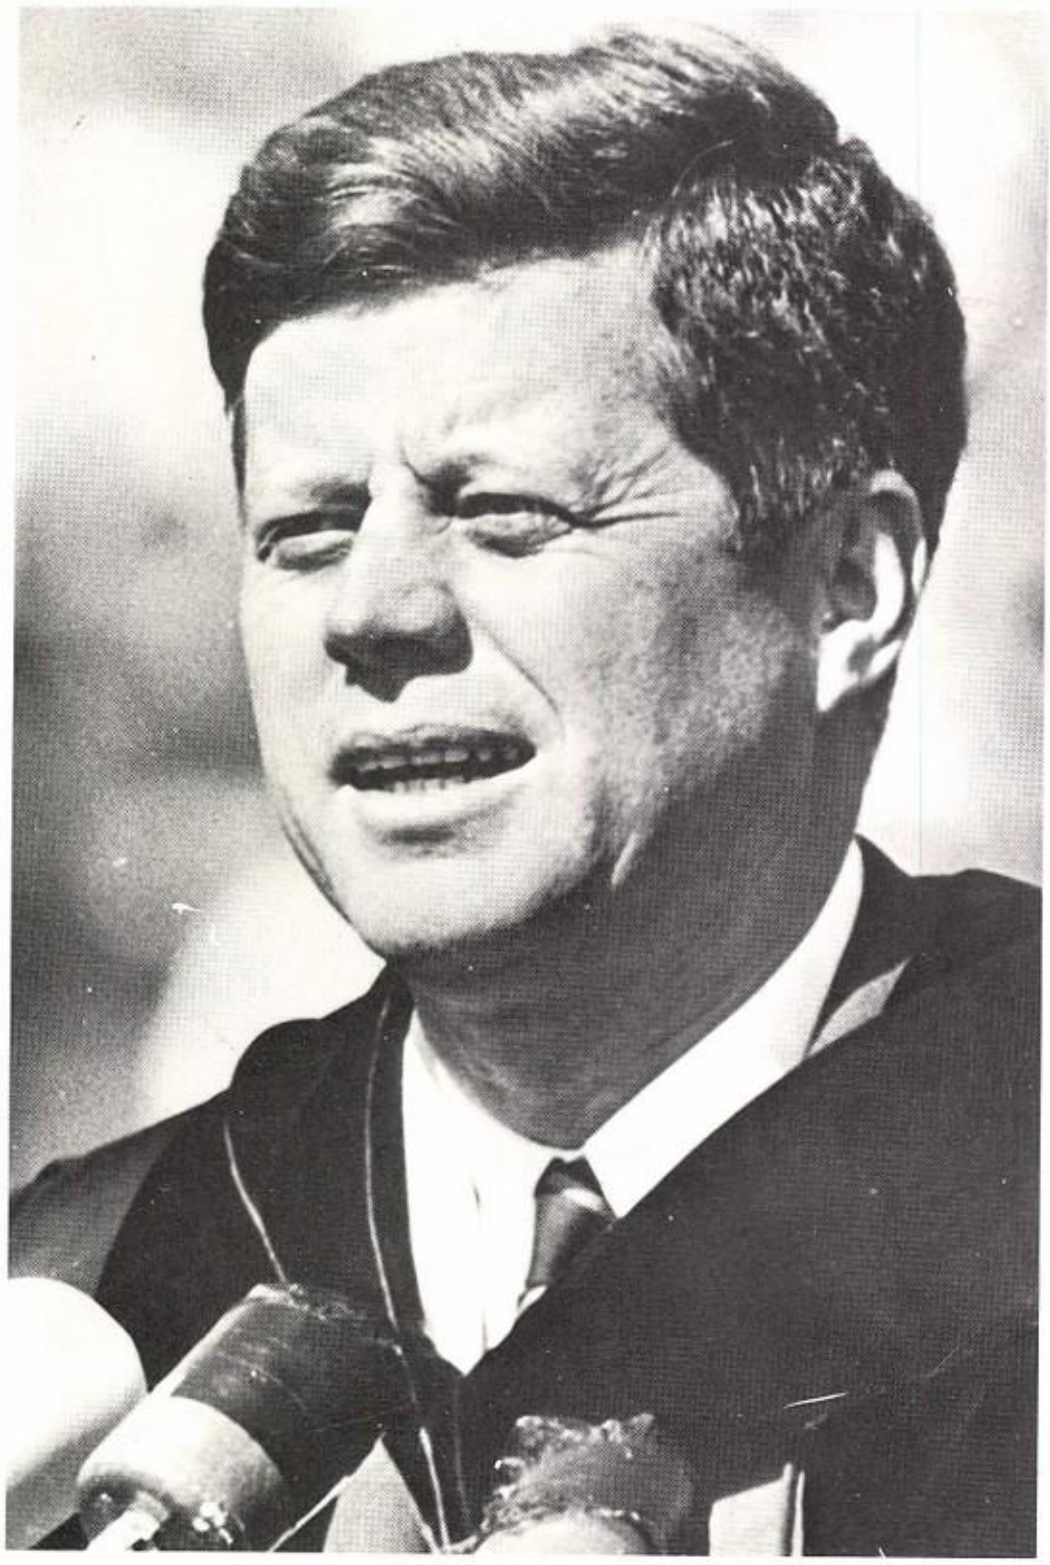
The memorable night of the Junior Informal held fun and excitement under the spell of "Moonlight and Roses." Many hours were spent by Joey Stevens and crew making rose trees and trellises with eye-catching, mood-spinning results. Decorative as well as tasty refreshments and a wide selection of music were arranged for by Marie Morphy and her committee. Franca Di Ruocco and fellow-artists designed bids of which we are proud.

Informal

A Farewell to Greatness

"To die at the height of a man's career, the highest moment of his effort here in this world, universally honored and admired, to die while great issues are still commanding the whole of his interest, to be taken from us at a moment when he could already see ultimate success in view—is not the most unenviable of fates."

—Winston Churchill



A memorial Mass was celebrated at Holy Names on November 27.

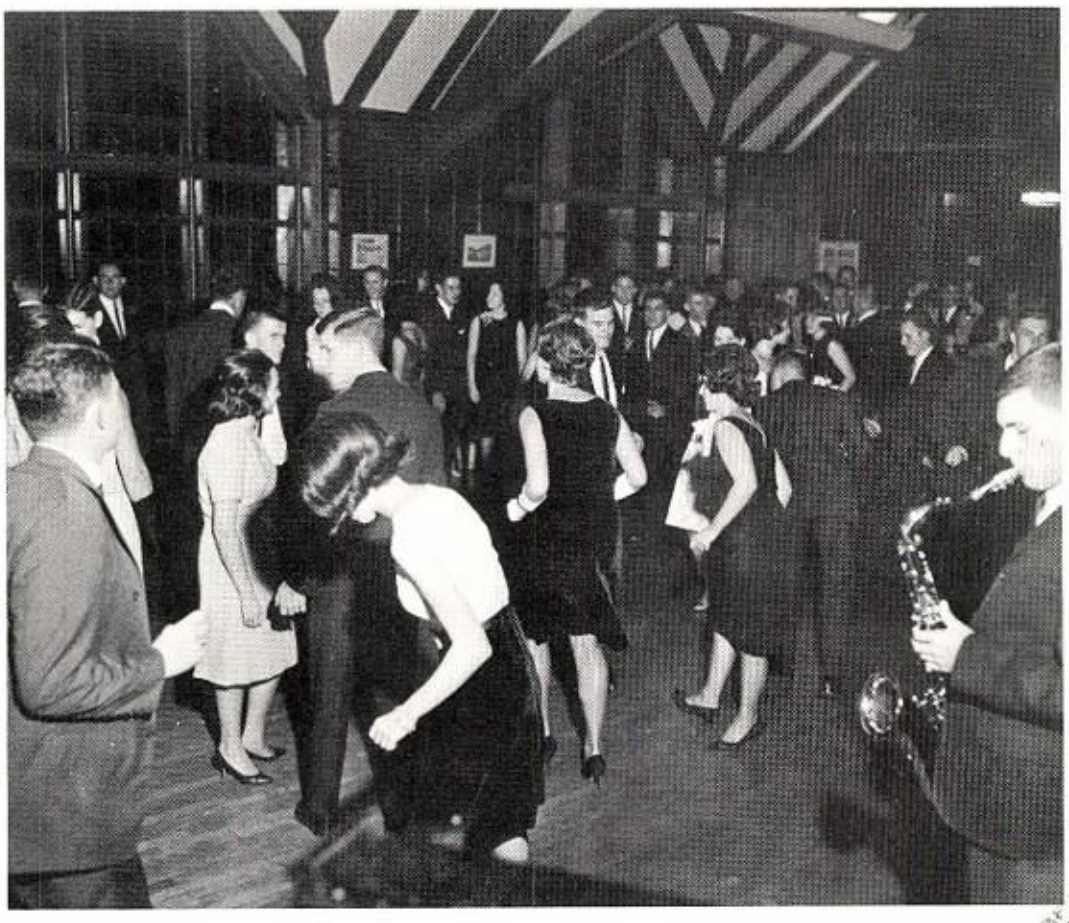
"Let the word go forth from this time and place to friend and foe alike, that the torch has been passed to a new generation of Americans." As these words rang out one chill January day, John Fitzgerald Kennedy firmly grasped the torch of freedom. He was the new leader; he was the representative of that "new generation of Americans." Thus, the new President "led the land he loved" to the New Frontier. With youthful vigor he initiated new programs and gave a fresh look to the old. The Alliance for Progress, the Peace Corps, the Nuclear Test Ban Treaty —these were among the many new measures of the Kennedy Program.

His tremendous popularity was world-wide. John Kennedy personified the characteristics of which Americans are most proud. Then suddenly two years and ten months after that Inauguration Day, the voice of our beloved President was stilled forever by an assassin's bullet.

President John Fitzgerald Kennedy is dead, but he will always be alive in the minds and hearts of his countrymen and people the world over, "and his greatness shall live on." It would be well to remember the words of Speaker John McCormack on November 23, 1963:

"We should thank God that we have been privileged, however briefly, to have had this great man for our President."

This photograph of President Kennedy at the University of California was provided through the courtesy of the Oakland TRIBUNE.



Senior Informal

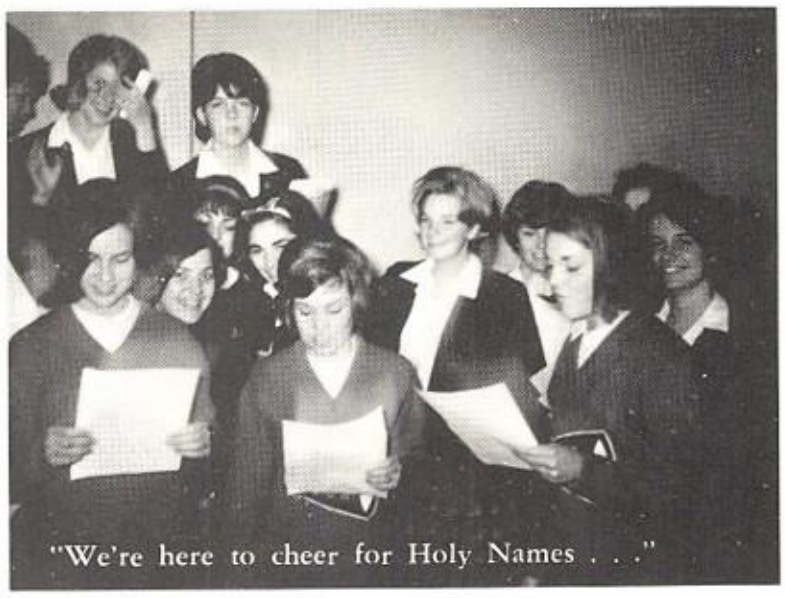
November 29

On a windy night in late November, the Seniors held their never-to-be-forgotten Senior Informal. From nine to twelve, they danced to the music of Pete Dutton in the enchanted atmosphere of the Brazilian Room at Tilden Park.

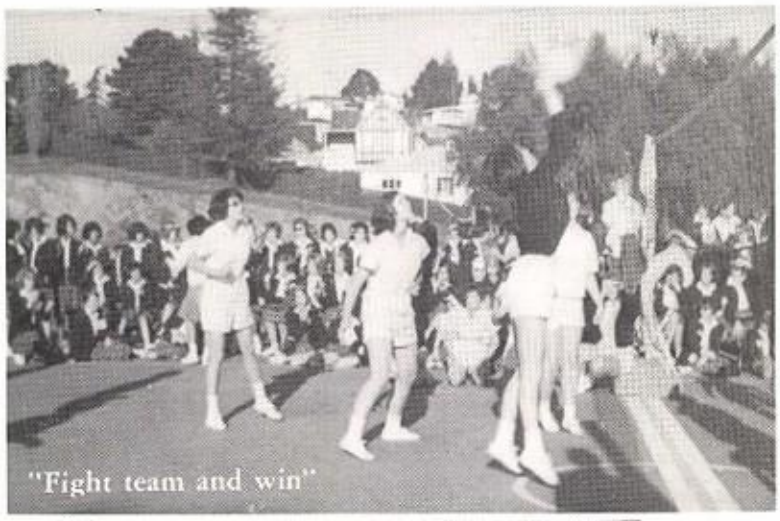
Play—day

Despite added competition from a new participant, St. John's, Holy Names once again emerged victorious on volleyball playday. Not only was the playing rough, but the spirit and sportsmanship displayed by all the schools, Bishop O'Dowd, Marin, Notre Dame, and Saint John's was wonderful. During lunch, representatives from each school entertained everyone with acts showing talent and humor. Good weather also played its part to make the day truly a fun-filled playday and one to long remember.

Volleyball Game Day



"We're here to cheer for Holy Names . . ."



"Fight team and win"

Volleyball Game Day ended in victory for the mighty Seniors and their spirited sister class. Upon regaining the bell from the Juniors, the Seniors had a party at which they repainted the bell a triumphant green and gold.

The spirited Sophomores congratulate their sister class upon their victory in the Christmas Card Drive.

The Advent season at Holy Names began with the weekly vigils at the advent wreaths, located in each hall. At the beginning of the season, an Advent Program was held, which helped to make each student aware of the value and importance of the time. During the first week of Advent, the Sodalists made their Act of Consecration to the Blessed Mother, pledging to be fervent in their duties. At the end of the season, the annual Christmas Program was held, including a variety of tableaux depicting Christ's birth, and the daily renewal man has of His suffering and death — the Mass. After the blessing of the tree by Sister Superior, Santa arrived to wish the Student Body a Merry Christmas. The spirit of love and good will was culminated by the distribution of baskets to less fortunate families.

Arriving back at Holy Names after a refreshing vacation, the students took part in the Epiphany Program. The three kings granted the girls privileges to commemorate their gifts to the Christ Child.

Villa Maria del Mar

The senior retreats in January and April proved to be very beneficial to all who attended them. This year they were held in the peaceful atmosphere of the Villa Maria del Mar in Santa Cruz. The hotel purchased by the Sisters was able to accommodate many more girls than Los Gatos, providing these retreatants with the opportunity of enriching their lives.

Several times this year Holy Names hosted retreatants from southern Holy Names high schools, who visited us during their stay in "God's country."

Rhythm Reviews

Not only Rodgers and Hammerstein or Lerner and Lowe can put on successful musicals; Holy Names Student Body put on a dozen or two on S.S.C. Half Day. This year the S.S.C. presented "Rhythm Reviews," in which each section selected a Broadway musical as the theme of their booth.

Courtesy Queen, Patty Donovan, reigned over the day's festivities. In reward for the hard work devoted to their "Showboat" booth, Junior Section I received the prize for the best display. The profits of the fun-filled day went to the less fortunate people in the missions.

"To Keep the Flames from Holy Names" was the theme of the Mothers' Club luncheon held on Thursday, January 30, 1964, at the Athens Athletic Club. Thanks to the supervision of Mrs. M. Mrs. Kehoe conducted the Dutch Auction, and Mrs. O. Rees obtained the door prizes which went to these lucky ticket holders. The proceeds will be used to help meet the financial requirements entailed by improvements required by the Fire Department.

Dads and Mothers Have School Spirit

Both the mothers and the fathers contributed much time and effort toward the betterment of our school.

Evidence of the sincere interest that the fathers have shown can be seen in the renovation of the lavatories and the light fixtures outside.

Democracy

This year mid-term elections were enthusiastically encouraged by the Faculty and Student Body of Holy Names. The tremendous response by the girls showed ready leadership and school spirit within our Student Body. This reaction triggered a better understanding of the workings of democratic government and reminded everyone that democracy is a privilege that must be used in order to make it work.

The elections brought in new leadership to some class and Student Body offices; but, even more important, it evidenced an active participation in student government.

The Mendelssohn's Concerto was accompanied by the Holy Names High School Orchestra. Mary Ann was assisted by her sister Anna Marie, and Lesleigh Fazzio who played a Waldi Concerto for two cellos.

Potential World Leaders

Peggy Fleitz was the representative of the Oakland Chapter of the Red Cross at the state-wide conference held in Sacramento at the El Dorado Hotel.

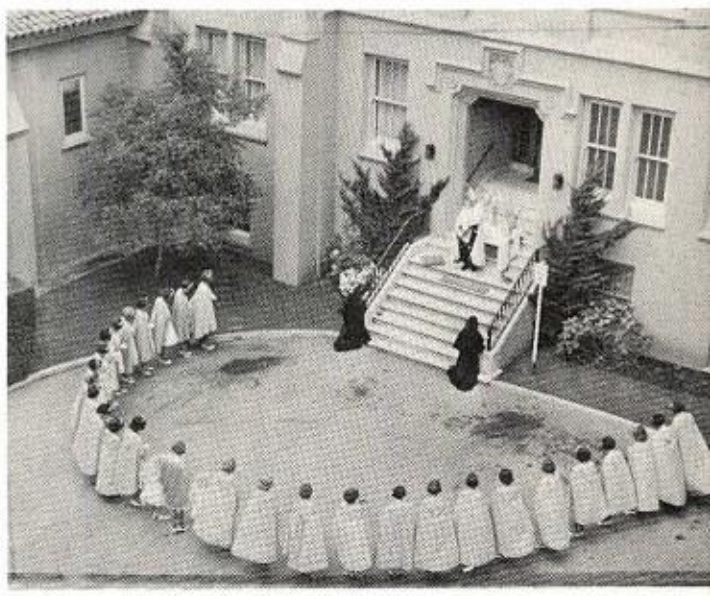
These five Seniors, Sue Tuohy, Peggy Pedemont, Marty Slattery, Claire Toomey, and Marianne McDaniel, represented Holy Names as delegates from Ethiopia at the University of California on February 28 and 29.

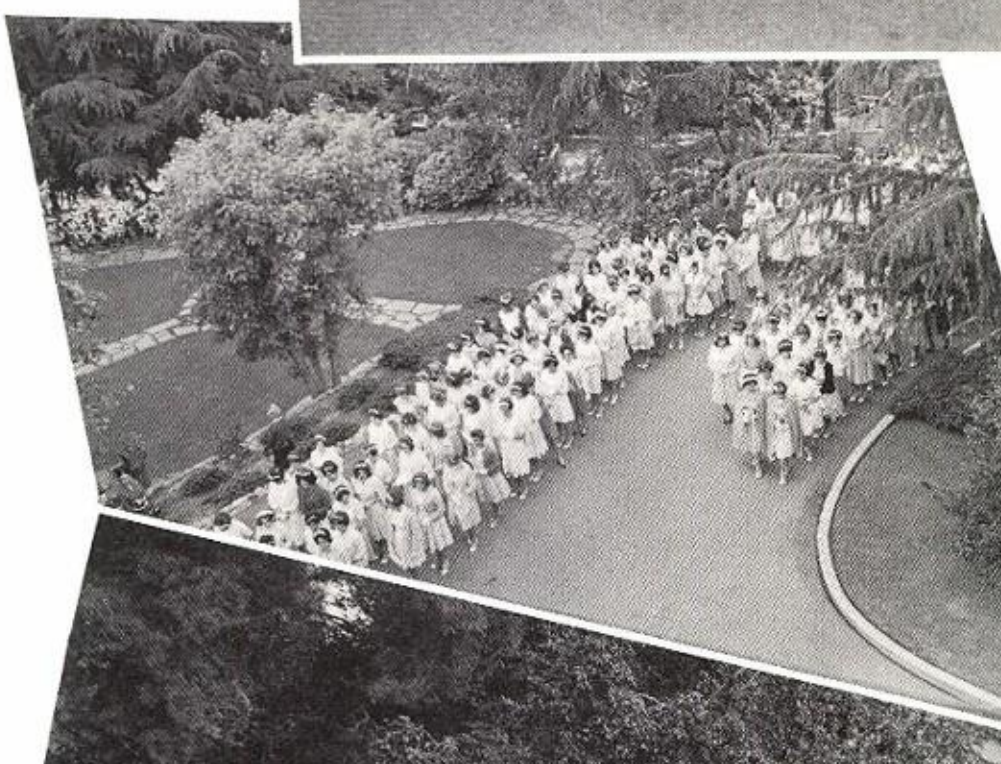
As officers for the new Literary Magazine, these girls: Mary Murphy, poetry editor; Mary Rosso, prose editor; and Jane Keller, editor-in-chief; (absent was Kit O'Malley, business manager); spend a great deal of extra time editing our creative works. Their frequent consultations with Mr. Lawrence Hart help to eliminate any trite additions and ensure excellent quality.

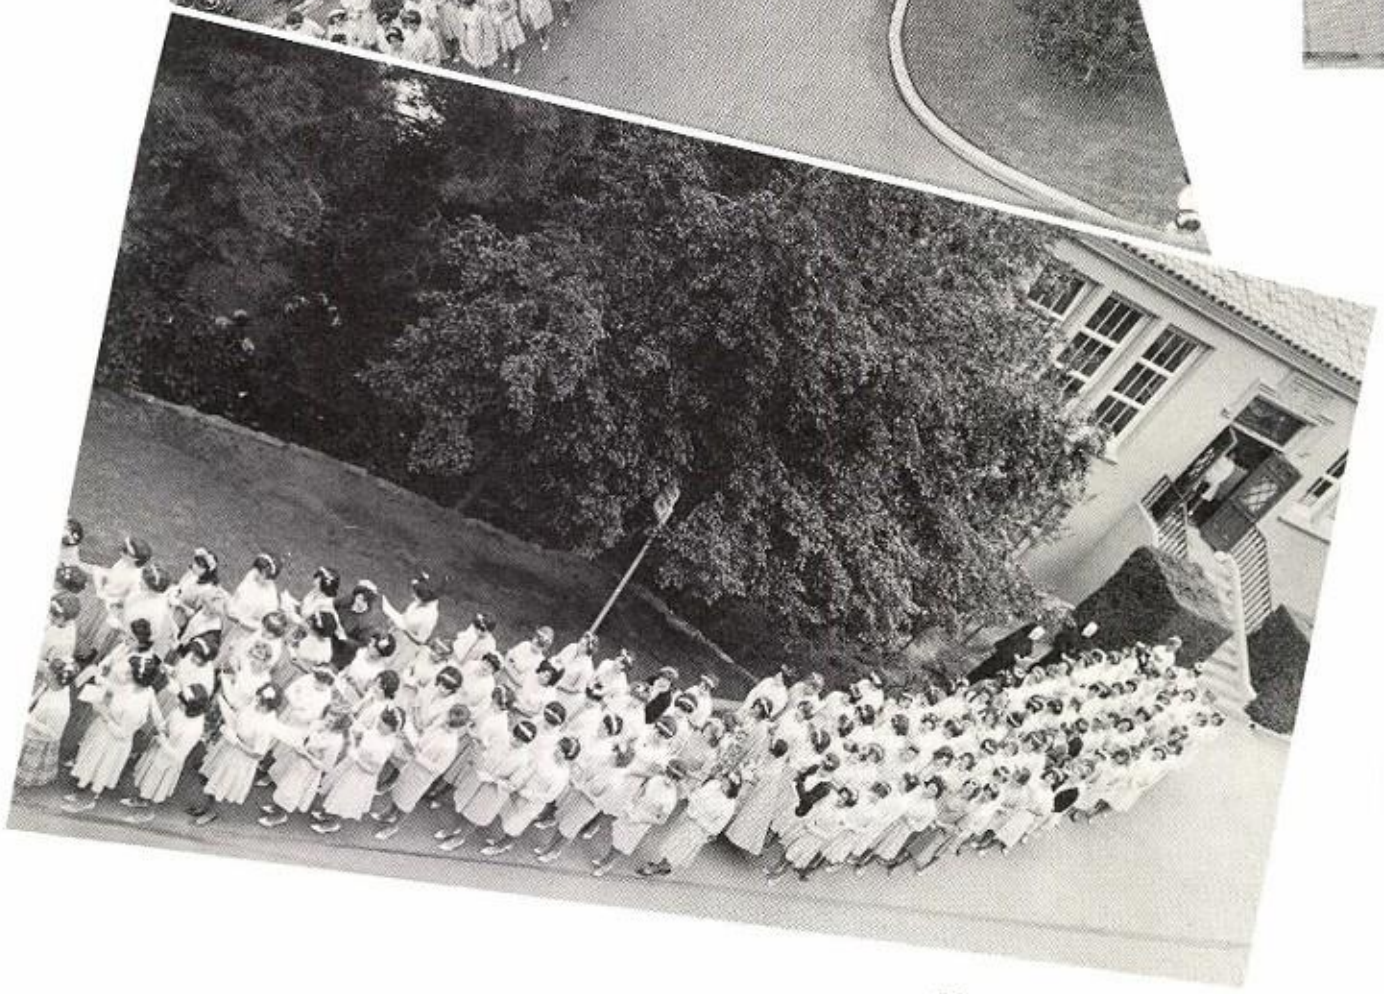
Sally Slyngstad, Maura Toomey, and Marianne McDaniel were the three contestants from Holy Names for the Lions Club Speech Contest. The topic was: Moral Integrity—Imperative for Survival. Sally represented our school in later competition.

Father Francis Maurovich presents to Ann Golden her scholarship to the Catholic college of her choice, which she earned by winning the Catholic Voice Essay Contest.

We Pay Homage to Mary







The May crowning of Mary is an honored tradition at Holy Names. More than ever in this year's May Procession, that spirit of respect and love due a queen permeated our act of homage. The high point of the procession was the crowning of Our Lady by Marty Slattery, President of the S.S.C. One wreath of flowers was placed at her feet; another crowned her head. These ceremonies were reverently concluded by Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament given by Monsignor Robert Cullen.

Visitors Enlarge Our World

Father Francis Maurovich, editor of The Catholic Voice, and Mr. Angelo DiFalco, circulation manager of the Voice, plead for our support in the Catholic Voice Crusade.

Father Daniel Danielson and Mr. Gerald Hanson enlighten us about the positive work being done to extend and promote Christian love by the Cursillo and Search movement.

Father John Waldie, M.M., and Mother William Marie, Provincial Superior.

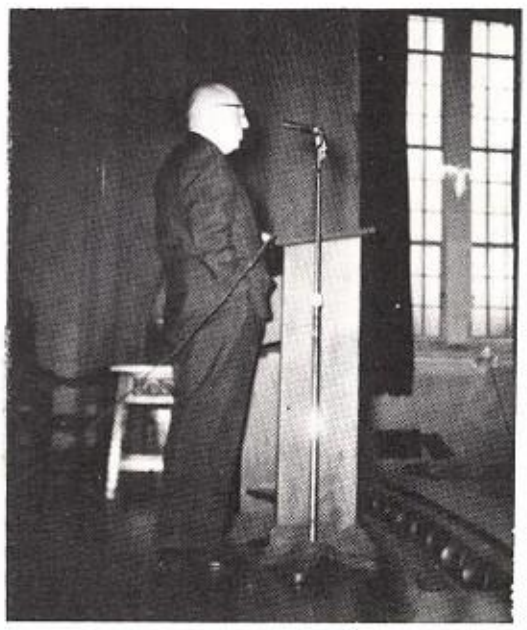
Neiani Franek, Sister Mary Berchmans, S.N.J.M., and Marilyn Ayres.

A number of guest speakers provided much food for thought for us this year. The Ecumenical Spirit was stressed by many, such as Rabbi Stern, who talked to the Seniors about the Jewish religion; Father John Waldie, M.M., who told of the work of the Holy Names' missionaries and others in Peru; Sister Mary Berchmans, HNH alumna, who anticipated for us her future work in South Africa; and Father Francis Maurovich, who spoke of his trip to the Vatican and his impressions during the second session of the Ecumenical Council.

Other guests broadened our outlook on life: Mr. Richard Yee, a professor of philosophy at Holy Names College, made us stop and think about much that we take for granted; Sister M. Claire Madeleine, also of Holy Names College, showed us how to appreciate the beauty and fascination of poetry.

Still other speakers brought closer to us the troubles in today's complex world.

Rabbi William Stern



Mr. Richard Yee

Miss Mary Louise Hickey is interviewed by staff members after her captivating performance.

Mr. Henry Casanave from the Inter-racial Council told us of the challenging problems that the Negro faces daily. Dr. Carmen T. Boscoe, with his informative film, showed to us the significant link between smoking and cancer. Mr. Boniface Obichere of Nigeria and Mr. Franklyn Barnett told us of the problems of Africa and the progress being made there. Mr. Kenneth H. MacLaughlin of Junior Achievement made us realize that we must be ready to accept a role in the business world.

Entertainment, too, was provided by our guest speakers. Miss Ellen Connor, a folk singer, offered an afternoon of enjoyment. Again this year we were happy to welcome Miss Mary Louise Hickey. She presented "The Barretts of Wimpole Street."

We are grateful for the opportunities we were given to encourage our appreciation of culture.

"A little dab 'll do ya!"

It's amazing what a coat of paint can do. Moe, Peggy, Pris, Penny, and Kitty know this all too well. Brushes, paint, and "elbow grease" helped to give a bright new look to the GAA office.

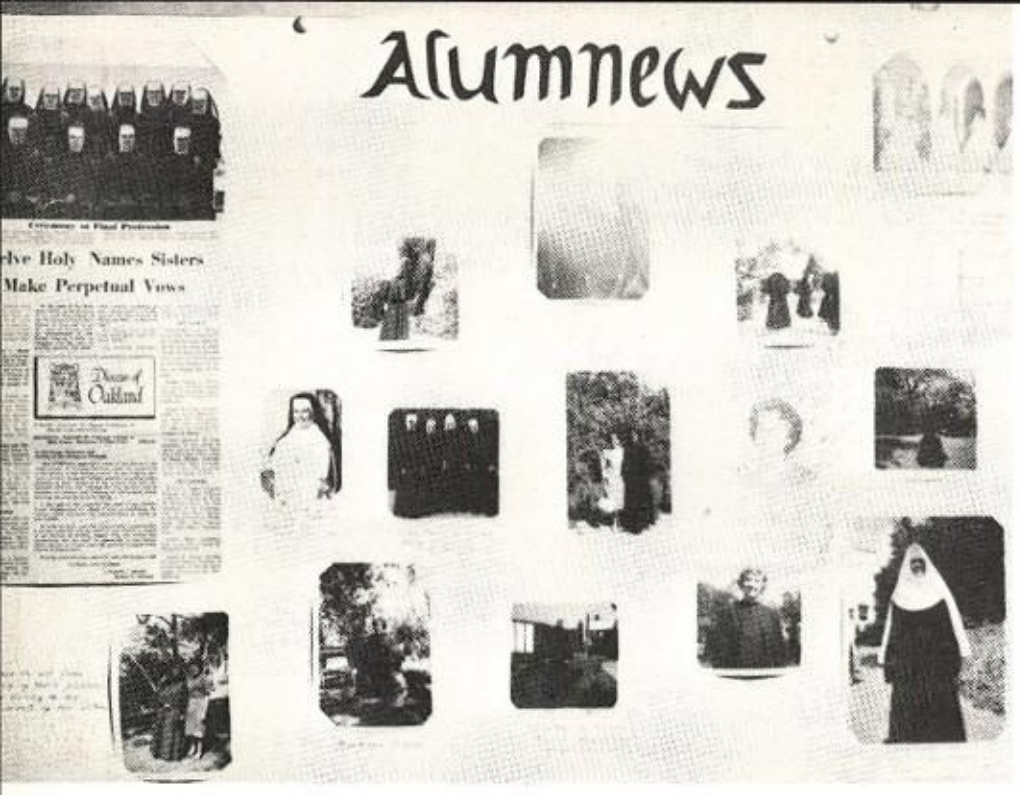
G.A.A. Gets a New Look

A coat of paint wasn't the only new look for the GAA this semester. Miss Denise Mezek joined the faculty as a replacement for Mrs. Eklof, who moved to Sacramento. We are sorry to lose her. The enthusiasm that she gave her students will long be remembered.

Welcome, Miss Mezek! You will surely have our support in the months ahead.

The Daily World

of Holy Names



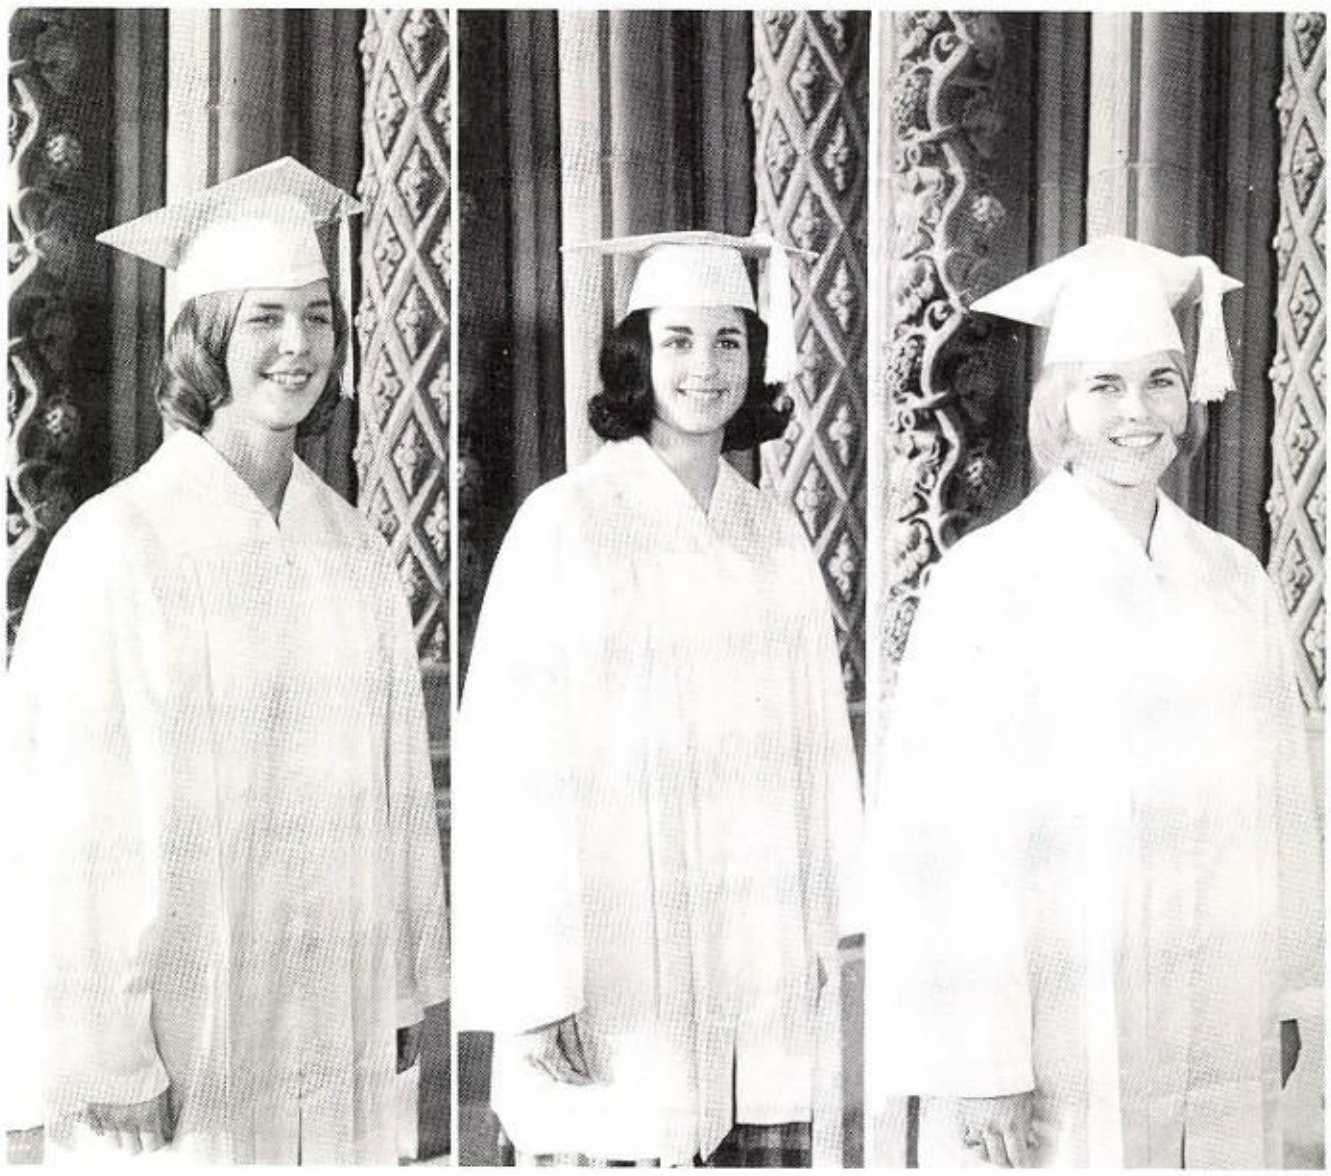
Our Alumnae are brought back to the corridors of Holy Names every time there is news of a marriage, the birth of a baby, the profession of religious vows, or any event of public recognition. This is the function of the Alumnae bulletin board—to bring them all back in times of success and happiness.

Alumnae

Barbara Canepa, '62, and her groom, Stephen Roberts returned to fulfill a Holy Names tradition by placing her wedding bouquet at the feet of the Blessed Mother's statute in chapel and signing the Alumnae bride's book.

It was a day of cherished memories and reminiscences as the Class of '63 reunited in traditional fashion during the Christmas holidays.

Classes



CLASS OF 64

Upon arriving at Holy Names High School in 1960 as excited Freshmen, we looked admiringly at the Seniors, wondering if someday we, too, would attain this goal. Led by our patron, St. Joan of Arc, we attempted to achieve our motto, "To the highest we will always strive." Our mascot, the giraffe, helped greatly in reaching the heights for which we strove.

As Sophomores, we came closer to our goal. The joys and memories of our sophomore year are many. We began our accomplishments by winning both A and NO cups and a series of sports victories. Our first dance, "Three Coins in a Fountain," outshone every expectation.

In 1962 our goal was in sight as we became upperclassmen. Our undying enthusiasm led us to win the Christmas Card Drive, and again, the A and NO cups. Our year sparkled with our Junior Informal, "Golden Gate Twilight," and our Junior Prom.

At last we reached our goal of becoming leaders of the school. Our enthusiasm was again shown as we won both the Patron Drive and the Christmas Card drive.

The memories of our years at Holy Names High School will be engraved upon our hearts forever; and as we receive our diplomas in June, our voices will re-echo the words of our school song:

"We'll ever loyal be to Alma Mater, Holy Names!"

The final months of the year 1963 were very busy for the spirited Seniors. After being hostesses for a group of girls on retreat from Ramona Convent, they began to have some fun for themselves. Activities included decorating lockers at Christmastime, caroling in the halls and for the Sisters at the Wassail Party. Their graduation year, 1964, was heralded in by their cheerleaders, Kathy, Gail, and Sally, as Linda displayed their class flower, mascot, and motto.

It is only in retrospect that we can evaluate the growth and development of a human being. So it is in evaluating the growth of the Class of '65! Proud of their patroness, St. Bernadette, they strive to emulate her, calling upon the Blessed Virgin to guide their activities. The past is like a setting sun as we end a memorial Junior Year; the rays of brightness shine and emerge in the dawn of '65, bright and clear, luminating a path, guided by their patroness as they endeavor to reach religious, academic, and social statures in the true tradition of their school.

Class Presidents: Marcia Canning, Cynthia Coleman, Maureen Hurley, and Margaret Kennedy.

Unity in the Class of '66 has made it a great year for them. St. Patrick, their faithful guide, has helped to lead them to the basics of responsibility and leadership in preparation for the Junior and Senior years. In this year, "Victory through Jesus and Mary" has been the key to their scholastic, athletic, and spiritual achievements.

The Sophomores showed their participation in the Advent program by making the wreath for the main hall. Mary O'Brien and Debbie Clarke help Sister hang their handiwork.

Class of '67

Arriving bewildered as usual, the Freshmen had to settle into the stream of high school life. Choosing St. George as their patron and the dragon as their mascot, the Class of '67 carved a nitch for themselves at HNH. Following their motto "Excelsior," the Freshmen were able to hold high their colors of red and white as they started "through four years of victory."
